

“Los Ofendidos”

Documentary screening and panel on the fight against impunity in El Salvador

The Due Process of Law Foundation (DPLF), the Washington Office on Latin America (WOLA), and the Latin American & Hemispheric Studies Program at The George Washington University invite you to a screening of Marcela Zamora’s award-winning documentary on the legacy of the internal armed conflict in El Salvador, “Los Ofendidos.” The film features Marcela Zamora’s father, Rubén Zamora, a key political leader and current Salvadorian Ambassador before UN, who was captured and tortured during El Salvador’s civil war. Bringing to light his story as well as that of others who suffered equally horrible torments in candid interviews, Zamora has created a documentary that gives voice to those stories many would prefer to keep silent.

With opening remarks from Leonor Arteaga, Senior Program Officer, DPLF, and an expert panel featuring:

- Marcela Zamora, Director “Los Ofendidos”
- Congressman James McGovern, U.S. House of Representatives
- Ambassador Rubén Zamora, Permanent Representative of El Salvador to the United Nations
- Alberto Brunori, UN Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, Representative for Central America

Moderator: Geoff Thale, Program Director, WOLA

George Washington University
Elliott School of International Affairs
1957 E Street NW. Room 112
Washington, DC 20052
Thursday, May 18, 2017
5:30 PM